CROSSING TO FRANCE

The area consisting of the Susa, Sangone, Pinerolese, Chisone, Germanasca and Pellice valleys is a land of true charm and evocative beauty, where cultural and gastronomic treasures abound, set against a magnificent natural backdrop. Although united by a similar cultural heritage, the valleys are each distinguished by their different geographical aspects which underpinned the divergent turns of history that shaped their destinies and cultural make up. Dominating the landscape on the road to France, watching over travellers from near and far, is the Sacra of Saint Michael, a monument and symbol of Piedmont at the mouth of the Susa Valley. The early medieval abbey is a shining example of accessibility despite the steep climbs that characterise the visit. The town of Susa itself houses important Roman ruins, including the Arch of Augustus, as well as the Diocesan Museum of Sacred Art.

Towering over the upper valley is the Fort of Exilles, one of the few fortresses accessible to all visitors, as is the nearby monumental Fort of Fenestrelle, accessible from the adjoining Chisone Valley. For a holiday off the beaten track, though accessible to all, go on the Scopriminiera tour in the Germanasca Valley, which takes visitors along the road of the talc mines. Waldensian traditions and culture are conserved in the Pellice Valley in the Grumiere Ecomuseum, situated in what was once an old textiles mill. Finally, visit the gastronomic Museo del Gusto in Frossasco, in the Pinerolese Valleys, to discover the flavours and fragrances of the local wine and culinary traditions.
