NOVARA

A Melting Pot of Style and Taste

A cultural crossroads and point of contact between Piedmont and Lombardy, between Mittel-European winds of influence from the Simplon Pass and Mediterranean traditions, Novara bears the mark of many different styles and schools of thought in its buildings and streets. No matter which direction you come from in approaching the city, well before arriving at the ancient Roman walls that enclose the town you cannot help but be struck by the towering spire of the Basilica of St. Gaudenzio, designed by the Novara-born architect Antonelli, famed for his Mole in Turin. A stroll through the streets is definitely the best way to soak in and admire the historic town, almost all of which is a pedestrian zone. A short walk will take you from the ancient bastions to the cathedral, with its Museum of the Vicarage and Saint Syrus' Chapel, and then on to the exposition centre

Broletto, a wonderful example of the architectural evolution of the city. With eyes raised to admire the baroque buildings that line the streets, move on to reach the elegant shopping strip of Via Cavour, where local specialities can be purchased, including Novara's traditional biscuits. Don't miss out on an excursion into the local hills to explore the DOC wines produced in the area, including Fara, Sizzano, Boca and the prestigious Ghemme DOCG, or a stop for a gourmet meal in one of the many accessible taverns along the way. Immersed in the rich green sea of the high grounds overlooking the Sesia Valley, the Boca Sanctuary is another impressive monument bearing witness to the creative inspiration of Antonelli.
