VERCELLI

and its Watery Lands

Immersed in rice fields, it must be said that the plains of the Vercelli district form a landscape of true ancient charm. Glassy sheets of water, dotted with farmhouses and rice mills, mesmerise for the rich colours of the vegetation and the wealth of fauna that makes it home here. Vercelli is a city made-to-measure for man, with a town centre renowned for its historical, artistic, cultural and architectural heritage of rare beauty. Visit the Borgogna Museum, the second-largest picture gallery in Piedmont and tenth-largest in Italy for the wealth of masterpieces that it houses. The collection features works by Italian and local masters, as well as artists from the Dutch, Flemish and German schools. On some occasions, the museum has featured tactile and olfactive tours for the visually impaired. Worthy of note is the Abbey of Saint Andrew, one of the stateliest symbols of the city, as well as Saint Christopher's Church, the wonderfully majestic Saint Eusebius' Cathedral and the Archbishop's Palace, which houses the Cathedral's riches.

Outside the city, easy-to-visit sights include the old rice mills, where you can discover how rice is transformed from the plant to your plate, of Lignana, Cascina Veneria, which was the setting for the celebrated neorealist movie Bitter Rice, starring Silvana Mangano and Vittorio De Sica, and the mill still running in Lucedio, located in what was one a medieval monastery founded by monks in 1123.
